Large forest tracts clear cut for development near Patuxent Refuge

BRAC development creates risks for Patuxent River and Research Refuge.

Large forest tracts just north of the Patuxent Research Refuge, left vulnerable by a grandfathering clause in the Anne Arundel County Forest Conservation Act, are to be clear cut to accommodate construction of hundreds of townhouses and condominiums. Forest segments that now provide storm water mitigation for the Patuxent River will be replaced by impervious surface, and wildlife habitat for Forest Interior Dwelling Species near the Refuge boundary will be adversely affected.
